Ladyfinger #81

Say the Title Again

Say the Title Again

Tags: Poetry, Systems, Becoming, NSFW, Morgan Stern,

1.

Bounding and bounding
hand in gentle hand
I hate to start with a not,
but it doesn't start.
It keeps and continues.
I'm not here to say
what's not, but it's not easy.
It doesn't start, it smooths
and sometimes It notices us
our pleasure, And we Invent ourselves alive

2.

This is where we came in.
Where we saw another
might be thinking. Before,
Vigor and vapor
Pulsing and pendulous. Before, afraid and attracting. Before,
Stuff and sizzle.
Before thick and distant
the night physic
Matter-and-energy.

3.

Hand in gentle hand,
there is no fucking god.
No weight of gate of ticking told
There is fucking, though,
eventually, and all along
a co-arising.
It is all soft except the motion of our knowings
when, Oh no, we look in the red wet eyes of the other.

4.

Save me from, once again,
nots and from contrasts
And Back away, progress
you're standing in my is.
Let that becoming beam back in my eyes again
And if you say words like
"beginning," "competition,"
"stability,"
I will urinate in my barrel staring into the eclipse.

5.

This is why we can't have nice cosmogonies
because the divine
androgynous sticky girlcum
is a boundary drawn
in passion. As it cools
and tacks between us,
take joy in the fact of the natural vacuum in your head
when things are equalizing.

6.

Where is the thinking?
Only in the static cling
between.
Skin, where is the center
How can you say harmony
without unsinging it
How can you say
The pendulum is the damper
without getting horny
The boundary and the force
are of one tissue
Say the title again

Z_LXXXI (C) 01August2025

Morgan Stern

Ladyfinger Press

morganstern22@gmail.com
ladyfingerpr

1.
Bounding and bounding
hand in gentle hand
I hate to start with a not,
but it doesn't start.
It keeps and continues.
I'm not here to say
what's not, but it's not
easy.
It doesn't start, it smooths
and sometimes It notices us
our pleasure, And we
Invent ourselves alive

2.
This is where we came in.
Where we saw another
might be thinking. Before,
Vigor and vapor
Pulsing and pendulous. Before,
afraid and attracting. Before,
Stuff and sizzle.
Before thick and distant
the night physic
Matter-and-energy.

3.
Hand in gentle hand,
there is no fucking god.
No weight of gate of
ticking told
There is fucking, though,
eventually, and all along
a co-arising.
It is all soft except the
motion of our knowings
when, Oh no, we look in the red wet eyes of the other.

4.
Save me from, once again,
nots and from contrasts
And Back away, progress
you're standing in my is.
Let that becoming
beam back in my eyes again
And if you say words like
"beginning," "competition,"
"stability,"
I will urinate in my barrel
staring into the eclipse.

5.
This is why we can't have
nice cosmogonies
because the divine
androgynous sticky girlcum
is a boundary drawn
in passion. As it cools
and tacks between us,
take joy in the fact of the
natural vacuum in your head
when things are equalizing.

6.
Where is the thinking?
Only in the static cling
between.
Skin, where is the center
How can you say harmony
without unsinging it
How can you say
The pendulum is the damper
without getting horny
The boundary and the force
are of one tissue
Say the title again

Tags: Poetry, Systems,
Becoming, NSFW,
Morgan Stern,

Say the Title Again

Say the Title Again

Ladyfinger #81

Z_LXXXI (C) 01August2025
Morgan Stern
Ladyfinger Press
morganstern_22@[illegible]
ladyfingerpr[illegible]